A Traveling Man's Experience

You may learn something from the following by W. H. Ireland, a traveling salesman of Louisville Ky. "In the summer of 1888 I had a severe attack of cholera morbus. I gave the hot porter fifty cents and told him to buy me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy and to take no substitute. When troubled with indigestion or constipation take Chamberlain's Tablets. They strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. They also cause a gentle movement of the bowels.

FEEDERS RESPONSIBILITY

It is an indisputed fact that the man who is attempting to be a breeder without being a skillful and competent feeder is bound to make a failure of it, unless he supplies through some other person, one who is able to meet the requirements of a successful breeder.

The feed question is the big question in the hog business whether he is a breeder or pork raiser. The principal cost in producing pork is feed. How to feed, when to feed, and what to feed are questions that every hog man must know. The breeder who has the best pigs is usually found to be the best feeder. He uses his brains as well as muscle in working out the problem of feeding of combinations of mixtures, not only the feeds, but in the method and manner of feeding.

The hog is an animal machine that transforms feed into muscle bone and elements that make growth gain and form. The feeder is the hog builder. If he uses material that is unnecessary, or to much of any one thing than is needed, it is a waste and a loss.

The man who is fattening his hogs when he should be growing is on the wrong road to ever reach success. Every breeder and every pork raiser should acquire a knowledge and instruction necessary to become an efficient and competent breeder. You want to get the benefit of the experience and knowledge of those who are making it a success. You must use thought with your act that if done. The difference in good feeding and poor feeding is shown frequently by illustrations of a photograph of two animals from the same litter that started out on an even footing so far as size, looks and quality were concerned. One fed under the book plan reached 300 pounds at seven months, while the other was about 140 pounds, and must have looked very discouraging when compared with the one by the right kind of feeding.

This shows where the responsibility of the feeder comes in.

Every mother knows that coughs and colds, neglected, may lead to the most dread diseases. Croup, bronchitis, pneumonia and consumption often have their beginning in a slight cold.

The wise mother gives Foley's Honey and Tar at the first signs of a cough or cold. She knows it stops coughs quickly, puts a soothing, healing coating on an inflamed and swelling throat, and gives a feeling of warmth and comfort to the sufferer.

—H. H. Sellers, Ashland, Penn., writes:— "Foley's Honey and Tar is the best cough and cold remedy I have ever tried. When my little boy had a cold on his chest, I gave him a few drops and it relieved his right away."

Newspaper Advertising the Best.

"Newspaper advertising is conceded by the great business enterprises in this country and Europe to be the best kind of advertising," remarked A. H. Deibold of Wheeling, W. Va. to the Washington Post. Nearly all the eminently successful business concerns owe a large measure of their success to the newspapers. This is due to the fact that they get more direct results than by any other method of advertising. It is also more satisfactory because advertisers are able to trace results from their advertisements in the newspapers where they cannot if they advertise only in other ways. It is impossible to estimate the amount of money spent in this country in newspaper advertising. I know of one concern that spends half a million dollars a year and doubtless there are others who spend largesums.
